As owners of Hawaiian grown Ka'u coffee we have been in operation since 1997 (20 miles south of Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.)

We are hopeful that the Volcano Project becomes the concession in the park. They demonstrate what we think would be a prestigious and community oriented establishment which could serve many big island coffees, including our Moaula Ka'u Cloud Rest and John Bull Hawaiian coffee.

The quality and concern that we have seen while serving the volcano community at the local farmer's market, demonstrates dedication and the community on the big island would be very proud to have them as the new concessioner, as we see it. They set up an information table every Sunday and that is where we first became aware of their hope to obtain the concession at the Volcano House

- 1) Our efforts demonstrate a work ethic that strives to be the best
- 2) Those efforts are reflected in the results of an excellent quality coffee - in fact a world class coffee
- 3) Our efforts raise the hopes and pride of your community by demonstrating that they too can hope to be the best
- 4) Our efforts create jobs and support the community islandwide

Sincerely,

James & Lisa Dacalio
